Editorial

In the light of considerable commitment and aided by the essential support of a high-profile scientific team, I managed to restore the consequentiality of our Journal, which was resumed after a few years of editorial suspension.

“Annali di Stomatologia” was founded in 1971 – year of registration is to be considered the “historical” dental magazine with the greatest presence on the national scene.

Following a complex editorial process that began in 2019, thanks to the commitment and professionalism of my scientific group, I managed to restore the DOI on all the scientific articles published to date.

The next step, which will take place shortly, will be to be included in one of the main databases in the biomedical field: PubMed.

We are currently in the process of starting the conversion of scientific works into HTML format so that the journal's indexing practice can be perfected.

First of all, I would like to thank Prof. Roberto Gatto and his staff for their commitment and high professionalism, without which I would not have been able to achieve such excellent results.

A special thank you must be dedicated to the priceless commitment of the entire Editorial Board and to the authors of the articles published in recent months, who believed in the growth process of Annali di Stomatologia, submitting their valuable articles and helping me to bring the Journal back to its former glory .

Finally, a special recognition is addressed to the Sponsors who in recent years have supported and still financially support my entrepreneurial project, believing in the realization of what was defined as a utopian dream of mine
