Editorial

Dear Colleagues, Esteemed Readers and Friends

It is an honor and privilege to introduce myself as the new Editor-in-Chief of “Annali di Stomatologia”, one of the oldest and most important Italian scientific dental journal, which is now aiming at regaining a relevant role in the international dental community as well. With a background deeply rooted in dental research and a passion for advancing the field, I am committed to fostering a platform that champions innovation, excellence, and the exchange of cutting-edge ideas. This journal seeks to be a beacon for dental professionals, researchers, and scholars, providing a space where original, innovative studies, comprehensive reviews, and insightful commentaries converge to shape the future of dental science. In office since January 1st, 2024, I am eager to embark on this journey of exploration, collaboration, and knowledge dissemination within the dynamic realm of dental sciences.

I am also glad to introduce our new Editorial Board, which comprehends both well-known Italian and international experts and young researchers, all of them dedicated to ensuring the highest standards of peer-reviewed content, encompassing a wide spectrum of dental specialties. From clinical breakthroughs to fundamental research, we aim to showcase the diverse facets of modern dentistry. Our commitment to rigorous evaluation and constructive feedback will uphold the integrity of the scientific process and contribute to the advancement of dental knowledge. We all understand the pivotal role dental research plays in improving patient care, addressing emerging challenges, and driving innovation in oral health.

As we embark on this exciting venture, we invite researchers, clinicians, academicians, and all stakeholders in dental sciences to contribute to the journal by sharing their expertise and insights. I am enthusiastic about the potential growth of “Annali di Stomatologia” in the next years, and I look forward to your valuable contributions, engagement, and support. With warmest regards
